Science Fiction

Over 2000 years ago when the ahmams almost destroyed their world, they had escaped to their moons and nearby planet for survival. Some had missed their trajectory or flew out of their solar system to parts unknown. Space travel had advanced to allow the present day ahmams to search for their lost brethren. Two humans from Mars decided to be the first in deep space and chose to come with the ahmams in their quest of discovery. What happens when societies are split in different directions?

A SF Mystery

The shock the Tucson police find in the desert is nothing compared to the shock Mother Nature has in store. When Detective Alex Blackhawk in the 25th century is put on one, then two, then three murder cases, he discovers there is a connection all the way to the White House. Dodging blaster plasma and earthquakes, he has to decide if the Vice President's influence and wealth will sway him from the truth.
